HHS Seeks Comment on Draft National Plan to Fight Alzheimer's Disease

Public input sought on detailed strategies for research, outreach, and caregiver support

The Department of Health and Human Services (HHS) recently released a draft National Plan to overcome Alzheimer's disease and related dementias. The draft National Plan to Address Alzheimer's Disease offers specific action steps to accelerate research on treatment and prevention, as well as proposals for improving care, services and support for patients, families and caregivers.

HHS is seeking comments on the draft National Plan to fully engage the Alzheimer's disease community, the public, states, local governments, community based service organizations, the private sector, and others in its development. Public comment will be accepted through March 30, 2012 and should be e-mailed to napa@hhs.gov.

To download a copy of the National Plan, go to <http://aspe.hhs.gov/daltcp/napa/#DraftNatlPlan>

Webinars This Week

ACA Webinar on Million Hearts

On Tuesday, February 28, the Administration on Aging (AoA) will continue its series of webinars focused on the Patient Protection and Affordable Care Act of 2010 (also known as the Affordable Care Act, or ACA) and its impact on the aging network, this month with a focus on health promotion and disease prevention.

Title: Million Hearts

Date: Tuesday, February 28, 2:00 - 3:30 p.m. Eastern

Description:

Heart disease and stroke are two of the leading causes of death in the United States. The good news is that many of the major risk factors for these conditions can be prevented and controlled. This month we look at two programs focused on this important work. First, Million Hearts™ Campaign is a national initiative that was launched by the US Department of Health and Human Services in September 2011 to prevent 1 million heart attacks and strokes over five years. Next, we'll spotlight an AoA-funded chronic disease self-management program in Florida that is working with a hospital starting a chronic disease outpatient clinic that targets people with high levels of cardiovascular disease and frequent hospitalizations.

Speakers:

Jackie Leboeuf, Baptist Hospital, Miami, FL
Martha Pelaez, Health Foundation of South Florida, Miami, FL
Janet Wright, Center for Medicare and Medicaid Innovation, Centers for Medicare & Medicaid Services, Baltimore, MD

Moderator:

Marisa Scala-Foley, Administration on Aging

HHS Implements Three New Provisions of the Affordable Care Act

Health and Human Services (HHS) Secretary Kathleen Sebelius recently announced more assistance to states as it implements three new provisions of the Affordable Care Act. The announcement gives states help by:

- Providing a new round of Affordable Insurance Exchange Establishment Grants, totaling $229 million to 10 states, to help states build new health insurance marketplaces;
- Promoting transparency and meaningful public input into the Medicaid demonstration process, and streamlining the federal-state consideration process as states test new models of care;
- Giving states the option to receive a State Innovation Waiver so they may pursue their own innovative strategies to ensure their residents have access to high quality, affordable health insurance.

For more information on the Affordable Insurance Exchanges, go to

Health Reform Expands the Insurance Market, Supports Consumer-Governed Nonprofit Health Plans

The Centers for Medicare and Medicaid Services (CMS) recently announced that seven Consumer Operated and Oriented Plans (CO-OPs) will receive repayable loans to help them establish private non-profit, consumer-governed health insurance companies. Created by the Affordable Care Act, CO-OP plans will give consumers and small businesses more health insurance choices.

CO-OP loans support the creation of new innovative health insurers, which will promote competition and increase choice in the insurance market. As consumer-directed organizations, CO-OPs are designed to be accountable to members and responsive to the specific health care needs of plan members by using profits to lower premiums, improve quality, and expand benefits or enrollment.

For more information on this announcement, go to <http://www.healthcare.gov/news/factsheets/2012/02/coops02212012a.html>

HHS Selects Challenge Winners for Facebook App

New applications will support personal emergency preparedness

Three Facebook applications designed to help people prepare for emergencies and get support from friends and family in an emergency – from personal medical emergencies or car accidents to natural or man-made disasters – are winners of a Facebook application challenge sponsored by the Department of Health and Human Services' Office of the Assistant Secretary for Preparedness and Response (ASPR).

ASPR's Facebook Lifeline Application Challenge called on software application developers to design new Facebook applications that could enhance individual and community resilience by establishing social connections in advance of an emergency.

Two recent Brown University graduates, Evan Donahue and Erik Stayton, partnered as Team ALP to win first place with their application, named Lifeline.

The Las Vegas team JAMAJIC 360 with David Vinson, Erick Rodriguez, Gregg Orr, and Garth Winckler came in second with an app also named JAMAJIC 360. Third place was awarded to AreYouOk? developed by TrueTeamEffort, a team of 11 University of Illinois students led by Alex Kirlik.

Update from the HHS Office of Refugee Resettlement: Telephone Scam Targeting Refugees

In early January, the HHS Office of Refugee Resettlement circulated a message concerning a telephone scam targeting refugees. At that time, a man was calling Bhutanese refugees, identifying himself as a representative of the “Federal Grants Department” from a Washington, DC-based telephone number, 202-436-9601. The caller was informing recently resettled refugees that they were eligible to receive $10,000 because they are refugees from Bhutan. To claim the money, they were instructed to produce a money order for $650, and call the telephone number for further instructions on where to send the money.

The HHS Office of Refugee Resettlement has received updated reports that the scam is still on-going, but some of the details have since changed: the man now identifies himself as “Nathan Price with the IRS” calling from a different DC-based telephone number, 202-657-4189, who instructs the refugees to have money wired to various people in India.

The most recent target of this scam lost over $6,000. The HHS Office of Refugee Resettlement advises everyone to be aware of this scam, and avoid giving any personal information or making payments to unknown callers.

Please note that the federal government does not demand processing fees, security deposits or overseas wire transfers from grant recipients or refugees.

If you are the target of a suspicious request, please contact your local police or resettlement agency for further assistance.

New AARP Policy Paper Calls for a Reexamination of Policies to Strengthen Caregiving Families

The AARP Public Policy Institute has released a new paper, *A Call to Action: What Experts Say Needs to Be Done to Meet the Challenges of Family Caregiving*. The paper highlights policy recommendations from an AARP Solutions Forum and summarizes ten common themes from the work of ten authors examining family caregiving today. These authors collectively call for a reexamination of policies and strategies to strengthen caregiving families.
